NEW ADVISORY BOARD IDEA.

L. K. Mulford, of Denver, has sued the Central Life of Des Moines for the return of his premium of $344.00 and so incidentally exposes a new device for selling policies that can be sold readily on their merits. It appears to be something of the nature of an Advisory Board scheme. In his petition he claims that the company's plan was to have a financial director in every county in the various States, "of which he was to be whom" in his county. He was to influence his friends in favor of the company, make loans for them, look after financial affairs in his locality, and be custodian of the company's deposits in Denver. All of this was to yield him a neat profit, while on his part he was to carry $5,000 insurance in the company. He took out his policy and paid his premium, but as the glittering promises made to him have failed to materialize, he sues for the return of his money.

Students Must Study.

In order that the students may not deceive their parents in regard to the work being done by them at the University of Nevada, the faculty has decided to send quarterly reports on the standing of each student to their parents. The parents will, in this way, know just what is being accomplished by their sons and daughters.

President of Bullfrog Company.

The Rhyolite Herald says Leon M. Hall has been elected president of the Big Belle Mining Company, operating in Bullfrog district, Nye county. The same authority states that considerable ore that will sort $100 per ton will be extracted from mere prospects.

Sentenced for Illegal Voting.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Justice Glergerich sitting in extraordinary special term session of the supreme court tonight, signed five orders for the inspectors and poll clerks of five districts to show cause before Justice Amehd next Thursday why they should not reconvene and recount the ballots voted in their respective districts on election day.

The first sentence for illegal voting at the recent election was passed today upon Edward Heads, who was sentenced to Qing Sing for not less than two years. He pleaded guilty to voting twice on election day.
